Operation Largest Of War

SAIGON (AP) — At least 50,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are sweeping between Saigon and the Cambodian border in the biggest operation of the Vietnam war, the U.S. Command announced today.

Elements of six divisions and two special task forces moved out Monday in an ambitious maneuver designed to regain the initiative seized by the Viet Cong with their countrywide assault on Jan. 30.

The allied force has killed 215 enemy soldiers, seized 22 suspects and uncovered three huge arms caches, spokesmen said.

U.S. losses were reported as 11 killed and 94 wounded, while the Vietnamese Command said its troops had suffered light casualties.

The vast operation—named Quyet Thang, or Resolved to Win—is anchored in Saigon and extends in a semicircle through five provinces north, west and south of the capital.

Fifty allied battalions have been committed plus support troops and national police units. It is the first significant operation uncoordinated by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, since Viet Cong forces invaded Saigon Jan. 31 and turned the city into a battlefield.

While the first goal of the operation is to destroy enemy units that continued harassing attacks around Saigon, a second aim is to restore a sense of security and confidence among the shaken civilian population, officials said.

For the first time in the war, sections of Saigon were included in the battle plan of an allied offensive, search-and-destroy operation. National police and units of the 5th Vietnamese Ranger Group were assigned objectives in western Saigon and Cholon, the Chinese quarter of the capital.

The force for the operation includes units of the U.S. 1st, 9th and 25th Infantry divisions, the South Vietnamese 5th and 25th Infantry divisions, task forces of Vietnamese paratroopers and marines, the Vietnamese Ranger group, and national police units.

Generally, the various units kicked off the coordinated action from areas to which they have been assigned for the past year.

A U.S. spokesman said soldiers of the U.S. 1st Division killed 28 enemy soldiers in two engagements Thursday near Ben Cat, 25 miles north of Saigon. Three American infantrymen were wounded.

Viet Cong caches containing tons of ammunition and weapons were discovered only 10, 12 and 24 miles northwest of Saigon.

Democrats Will Pick Delegates

JEFFERSON CITY, (AP)—The Democratic State Committee plans to meet in Jefferson City April 4 to set the time and place for choosing delegates to the National Convention in Chicago Aug. 26.

Chairman Delton L. Houchens said Missouri will have 78 delegates and 58 alternates with 60 votes at the convention. The committee will decide how to apportion the fractional votes.

It will also set the dates for district conventions to choose district delegates.

Chamber's Citizenship Award Presented to William Hopkins

William C. Hopkins was presented the Chamber of Commerce Outstanding Citizenship Award at the Chamber's annual banquet Thursday night at Smith-Cotton cafeteria. The award was presented by J. L. Van Wagner, second vice-president.

Hopkins was cited for his record for community service, both in Chamber work and other civic projects. He is a past president of the Chamber.

In accepting the award, Hopkins expressed his appreciation and said that he and his family had been "nomads" until coming to Sedalia, but that the spirit and friendliness of the town have made them permanent residents, despite many offers to move elsewhere.

The meeting was presided over by Thomas T. Keating, newly-elected president, with invocation given by the Rev. George Sparling, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church. Mrs. William Burkholder led the singing of the National Anthem.

Keating presented Carl Yates, retiring president, a plaque, and praised him for his three years of service as president to the Chamber of Commerce.

Yates then presented Eugene Kreisel with the award for outstanding director of the Chamber. Kreisel is Director of the Agricultural and Farm Market Division.

Louis Hughes, Jr., first vice-president, introduced those seated at the head table: Gary Cooper, executive manager of the Chamber, and Mrs. Cooper; Mrs. Louis Hughes, Jr.; Mrs. Tom Keating, wife of the president; Mrs. Vivian Warren, treasurer; Mrs. James Van Wagner and Mrs. Carl Yates. Others introduced were: Col. George R. Brendle, commander of the 351st Combat Support Group, Whiteman AFB, and Mrs. Brendle; Col. Harrison R. Christy, Jr., base commander of 351st Combat Support Group, and Mrs. Christy; Sen. and Mrs. John Ryan, Rep. and Mrs. Joe Rains, Presiding Judge of the Pettis County Court, Henry Lamm, and Mrs. Lamm; Judge Zeb Thomas, Western District, and Mrs. Thomas; Judge E. L. Birdsong, Eastern District, and Mrs. Birdsong; and from the Marshall Chamber of Commerce, George Meuschke and Mrs. Meuschke; and J. Leo Hayob, manager and Mrs. Hayob.

Members of the board of directors and their wives were introduced: Mr. and Mrs. James Callis, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Hedderich, Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Healey, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Hiatt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. William Burkholder, Mr. and Mrs. James Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McDonald, Dr. A. R. Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mathewson, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Robinson, and the Rev. and Mrs. George Sparling.

Retiring members introduced were Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. K.A. (See CHAMBER, Page 4.)

Take Urgent Steps To Hold Gold Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Battling the frenzied wave of gold buying in Europe, the government triggered higher interest rates for American borrowers today and convoked an emergency meeting of representatives of gold pool nations.

In a related move, the London gold market—accepting a U.S. suggestion—did not open today. There was no immediate word on when trading would resume.

The pattern was mixed in other gold-trading centers on the Continent. Trading was halted in Zurich but proceeding on a limited basis in Frankfurt. In Paris the decision was to go ahead with business as usual on the gold market.

Uncertain which way to jump, the Bank of Finland suspended all foreign exchange transactions.

U.S. officials sought to stem the gold buying spree, which threatens the very existence of the international money system, in this series of rapid-fire developments late Thursday.

—The Federal Reserve Board raised its discount rate from 4.5 per cent to 5 per cent, effective today, in a move designed to fight inflation and restore confidence in the dollar overseas.

—The Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve scheduled a meeting for Saturday in Washington among the seven nations which feed gold to the London market in an attempt to maintain the price at $35 an ounce.

—The United States reasserted its determination to buy and sell at $35 an ounce.

—The Senate backed up this commitment by completing congressional action, 39 to 37, on a bill to remove the 25 per cent gold backing for paper money, thus freeing the nation's entire gold stock of $11.4 billion to back the dollar overseas.

In London, Queen Elizabeth proclaimed a special bank holiday for today. The London stock market was closed and Canada raised its discount rate from 7 per cent to 7.5 per cent effective today.

For the United States, the discount rate is now at its highest level since the days which preceded the 1929 stock market crash when the rate hit 6 per cent. It reached its highest level—7 per cent—in 1920-21.

This is the charge commercial banks must pay for money they borrow from the Federal Reserve System. All other interest rates are pegged upward from it.

The upward move will mean higher interest rates in the economy generally and ultimately will filter through to loans on mortgages, automobiles and other consumer goods.

In suggesting the closing of the London market, the focal point of the buying stampede, the Treasury Department said it had become disorganized and "didn't permit business to be handled in orderly fashion."

The United States contributes 59 per cent of the gold sold on the London market as part of a seven-nation pool.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board said they invited the central bank governors of the gold pool countries to consult Saturday on "coordinated measures to ensure orderly conditions in the exchange markets and to support the present pattern of exchange rates based on the fixed price of $35 per ounce of gold."

How long the London gold market will stay closed presumably will be worked out at the Saturday meeting.

Symington Asks For Bond Reconsideration

Missouri Senator Stuart Symington Thursday requested in a Senate statement that the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee carefully consider the IRS proposal for revocation of tax exemption on municipal revenue bonds.

Symington said, "The use of these bonds has provided 9,338 badly needed jobs in 46 Missouri cities. Many other projects are now being developed. Some forty states are now using the program."

"Any action to revoke or limit this tax exemption should provide for completion of arrangements already initiated between communities and industries for plant expansion and new construction."

Paris Market Leaps

PARIS (AP) — The price of gold reached $44.36 an ounce on the Paris market today, more than $9 above the $35 price guaranteed by the United States. Wild speculation in Hong Kong sent the price to $40.47 while the London gold market suspended operations under government decree.

France refused to go along with other major European gold dealing nations in action to dampen buying. Normally, the Bank of France intervenes to keep the price just above the $35 dollar figure. But today, because the market did not receive fresh supplies from the seven-nation gold pool in London, the Paris price was allowed to find its own level in accordance with local supply and demand.

However, the Bank of France played a major role. It allowed the price for one kilogram—2.2 pounds—to rise to an unprecedented 7,000 francs or $1,400 from the outset of dealing in a bid to hold down demand.

Today's over-all volume was $43.86 million compared with $52.6 million Thursday. Thirty tons of fine gold, excluding coins, changed hands, compared with 45 tons Thursday.

The Irish To Salute St. Pat

NEW YORK (AP) — A green wave rolls across the land this weekend when the Irish and the honorary Irish salute St. Patrick with high-spirited parades and parties.

The bagpipes will skirl and the drumsticks will twirl as the Kevins, Brians and Mikes—joined by Tonys, Abes, Angelos and Maxies—turn out for Magonous Succatus Patricius. That was the saint's real name.

He was born in Britain when it was part of the Roman Empire. Patrick's father, Calpornius, served the emperor as a decurion, a provincial official.

After being ordained in France, Patrick spent his lifetime converting the Irish to Christianity from the pagan practices of the Druids. He died in Ireland on March 17 in the year 461.

Some of the offbeat plans for the weekend: The Chicago River will be dyed green. Green water will flow in the city's Civic Center fountain.

Niagara Falls will be bathed in green light.

Nassau County rink in Hewlett, N.Y., has green ice and Irish music ready for skaters.

San Francisco's Mayor Joseph Alioto, the son of Italian immigrants, has presented Carmel O'Leary, Irish vice consul in that city, with a book that asserts the Irish migrated from Italy.

Rep. Francis J. Lynch wants the Pennsylvania Legislature to declare St. Patrick's Day a legal holiday like Washington's Birthday.

John F. Kennedy Boulevard will be included in the route of the parade in Philadelphia.

New York's parade up Fifth Avenue Saturday remains one of the nation's biggest. An Irish mayor who attended it a few years ago was asked if they had anything like it in Ireland. "No," he replied. Where would we put it?

Questions Answered On Gold

NEW YORK (AP) — What happens to your pay check if the price of gold is increased? Will a car cost you more money?

These are some of the questions people ask when the talk and the headlines turn to the international gold situation.

Economists interviewed by The Associated Press provided these answers to some of the most common questions:

Q—How would a man in the street be affected by an increase in the price of gold from the present rate of $35 an ounce?

A—An increase would mean that the United States had devalued the dollar. At home, pay checks, bank accounts, the costs of domestic products, and real estate would show no change.

The dollar would buy less gold but it would continue to purchase the same amount of goods—housing, cars—as it did prior to devaluation. However, imported goods might cost more.

Q—Would anyone benefit immediately from a gold price increase?

A—Hoarders and speculators in foreign countries would reap the immediate profits if they had bought gold for $35 an ounce and sold it, at say, $70. Some economists say doubling the price would end speculative attacks on the dollar since hoarders and speculators presumably would get rid of their gold at the higher price.

Q—Could there be detrimental effects?

A—Some economists foresee a breakdown in world trade and commerce, which has been pegged to gold being worth $35 an ounce. If world trade slumps, jobs would dwindle. Over the long run an inflationary trend would develop.

Q—Why is the price of gold held at $35 an ounce?

A—This is the price at which the United States has guaranteed since 1934 to buy and sell gold. It's the keystone of international finance.

Q—Why a price increase for gold?

A—Some argue a higher price for gold would restore confidence in the dollar and produce economic expansion. It would discourage hoarding and promote gold production, some say. Boosting the price requires congressional action.

Q—Where would a price increase?

Says RFK Won't Back President

BULLETIN

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said today he will announce Saturday morning in Washington whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says he could not support President Johnson for renomination, the New York Times reported today.

A principal adviser to the New York senator said it was likely Kennedy would enter the Oregon and California primaries, according to the story by Tom Wicker, Times' Washington bureau chief.

"Obviously I can't support the President," Wicker quoted Kennedy as saying in an interview. The senator said he would decide within a few days whether to become an active presidential candidate himself.

"The conversation with Mr. Kennedy left no doubt he had made a personal decision to enter in some fashion the intraparty struggle over the war in Vietnam and other issues. This was the context in which he said, 'Obviously, I can't support the President.'"

THE PERFECT RULES

"If Ye Love Me, Keep My Commandments." John 14-15

These words of Christ are very clear. If we are concerned about Him, then we will do as He tells us.

The Bible tells us just what to do to become a Christian, and what to do to remain a Christian. There is absolutely no excuse for man to change or alter these rules.

At East Broadway Christian we follow the rules as set forth in the Bible because we believe the word of God to be perfect.

Repertory Group Will Play in KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Missouri Vanguard Theater Company will prepare for a 24-community state tour with a two-night stand opening here tonight.

The group was organized to bring live professional theater to rural areas but will, in a 7-week tour, visit some of the state's larger cities as well. The Missouri State Council on the Arts allocated funds to support the tour outstate.

Five actors and actresses under direction of James Assad have been drawn from the professional company of the Missouri Repertory Theater, formerly the University of Missouri Summer Repertory Theater.

The company and administrative personnel will travel by auto and panel truck, carrying costumes, portable scenery, lighting, sound equipment and small properties. The communities will supply heavy properties and assistants.

"Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams tonight and "The White House" by A.E. Hotchner on Saturday night will be the two production in Kansas City used by the group as a tryout for the tour program.

On the tour one or the other of these plays will be staged at night in each of the tour towns. During the day assembly the classroom programs are scheduled for high school youths. The high school programs are intended to be 45-minute presentations to excite interest in full-length productions.

In the classrooms the company may dramatize famous courtroom trials, deliver speeches from history, demonstrate make-up and other technical sides of the theater, read prose and poetry or enact passages of a play.

The tour schedule calls for visits to Butler March 25, Clinton March 26 and Sedalia March 29.

April dates are:
1 — West Plains; 2 — Bolivar; 4 — Lebanon; 5 — Springfield; 10 — Monett; 15 — Montgomery City; 17 — Ft. Leonard Wood; 18 — Rolla; 19 — Jefferson City; 22 — Union; 24 — Flat River; 25 — Perryville; 26 — Lester-ville; 29 — Macon; 30 — Milan.
May dates:

Safety Talk Given At PTA Council

The Sedalia P.T.A. Council met March 6 at the First Baptist Church for the regular meeting.

Police Chief Miller, introduced by Mrs. Bill Hiatt, health and safety chairman for the Council, showed a film on highway tragedies and explained that heart disease is number one killer, cancer second, and traffic accidents third, with 53,000 killed last year and millions injured. Chief Miller stressed to the P.T.A. groups to give their full support to the Federal Highway Safety Programs to broaden Drivers Education classes in school.

Horace Mann School PTA was host to the council for March. Mrs. Don Livingston gave the devotional, "Make Me Care," and Mrs. Glenn Cromley, Horace Mann PTA president, gave the ice breaker.

Mrs. Claude Lambirth, president of the Council, presided over the business meeting. She announced that the annual school of instruction for all officers and chairmen of Sedalia PTA's will be held April 24 at the First Baptist Church. A pamphlet on smoking will be mailed out to parents of the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grade students.

Failures, Not Accidents

Under the caption "Daily Record" on Page 4 of the Democrat-Capital every day there is a subhead reading "Accidents." Items listed detail the results of automobile collisions.

We have been toying with the idea of suggesting to the news editor he change the heading from "Accidents" to "Failures."

One definition of an accident is an event or condition occurring by chance or arising from unknown or remote causes. This would indicate few vehicle collisions are really accidents.

This is supported by the opinions of State troopers in Maine who, according to the Rockland Courier-Gazette, are referring to highway crashes as "failures," rather than accidents... failure on someone's part to do the proper thing at the proper time. It is just that simple.

Failure to observe a safe speed for existing road conditions. Failure to extend common road courtesy to the other driver. Failure to remain sober while driving. Failure to dim headlights for oncoming cars. Failure to have tires in good condition. Failure to keep the vehicle in mechanical condition. Failure to follow at a proper distance.

The latter is what Missourians call tailgating — following another vehicle too close for safety. A rash of these accidents has been occurring in the Sedalia area and usually passengers in the car ahead are the ones who suffer injuries.

But let the operator of the car behind beware. Technically, and legally in most cases, the driver of the car behind is supposed to have his vehicle under control at all times.

However, if a person is tailgating it is almost impossible for his reflexes to react in split seconds when the car ahead suddenly slows down or stops, especially if a left turn impends.

No one can tell what the driver ahead is going to do, but if you hit him the burden of liability is upon you. You were not in control of your car.

There is absolutely no excuse for motorists to ride the bumper of the car ahead. No emergency conditions ever exist to justify such imprudence whether at 70 miles on a state highway or in speed zones of 20, 30, and 35 in the city where impact from a slow moving vehicle can cause dangerous whiplash injuries.

One of the amazing contradictions about tailgate drivers is their apparent neglect of a car's braking potential, or complete unawareness of a deficiency.

Always keep your distance from the car ahead is an axiom that should be given more consideration by motor vehicle drivers whether or not their car brakes are in good condition.

Parallels of China and Vietnam

By JACK ANDERSON

SAIGON — As a correspondent in China 20 years ago, I watched the Communist takeover of the mainland. The conditions which led to the downfall of Chiang Kai-Shek are present today in Vietnam. Here are some disturbing parallels:

Parallel No. 1 — The Chinese Communists gradually wrested control of the countryside, bottling up the Nationalists in the cities. Once in power, the Reds would strip the hated landlords of their holdings and parcel out the land to the peasants. When the Nationalists occasionally reconquered an area, they immediately returned the land to the absentee landlords.

This is precisely what is happening in Vietnam today. U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker has pleaded with the South Vietnamese authorities to adopt land reforms. However, the Saigon government has made no move to give the peasants a greater share in the land they till because many of the leaders in Saigon, as in Nanking 20 years ago, happen to be landlords.

Parallel No. 2 — Chiang presided over a coalition of war lords, who grew rich off American aid intended for their people. Corrupt officials down the line siphoned off U.S. goods that passed through their hands. Army commanders pocketed pay and supplies that had been earmarked for their troops. And Nationalist leaders suddenly began opening fabulous bank accounts in Switzerland and the U.S.

All of this has been going on in Vietnam. President Nguyen Van Thieu, however, has fired two war lords and has taken the first hesitant steps to curb corruption.

Parallel No. 3 — The tragedy of China is that Chiang recognized and corrected his mistakes after it was too late. In his island retreat, he finally adopted socio-economic reforms that have transformed Formosa into a prosperous, progressive country with the second highest living standards in Asia. His agricultural programs have become a model for the underdeveloped world. If he had pushed these reforms on the mainland he would never have been forced off.

—Thieu Moves Too Slowly— President Thieu also appears to be awakening to the need for reforms too slowly to save Vietnam. It will take some dramatic social, economic and political improvements to win the public support that is essential to real victory. But the cautious

Thieu is pussyfooting at a time when bold political action is demanded.

In Vietnam, of course, Thieu is backed by American firepower which was not available to Chiang. The Viet Cong can no more drive the Americans out of the country than a pack of rats could defeat an elephant. The rats might torment the elephant by gnawing at his heels, then elude his crushing counter-blows by scattering into their holes. The harassment might persuade him to leave, but they could never push him out.

Likewise, the Viet Cong cannot defeat the U.S.; they can only hope to discourage the Americans from remaining in Vietnam. This appears to be the aim of North Vietnam's master strategist, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, who defeated the French 14 years ago now in the back rooms of Paris than on the battlefields of Vietnam. Apparently, he now hopes to repeat this strategy against the U.S.

Already, he has jolted Washington with his bold attacks against 36 South Vietnamese cities. His troops were driven out of them all with heavy losses, which can hardly be called a military victory. Yet the Viet Cong offensive must be described as a psychological success.

Giap, it seems, next hopes to overrun Khe Sanh, which he would like to turn into an American Dien Bien Phu. He is using precisely the same tactics against the beleaguered Marines that overwhelmed the French defenders at Dien Bien Phu 14 years ago.

It is a showdown which Gen. William Westmoreland, the American commander, welcomes. He has tried to draw the North Vietnamese into open battle. While they are attacking the encircled Marines, he hopes to encircle the attackers.

—Westmoreland is Adamant—

Westmoreland definitely has no intention of losing the battle. He has assured the Joint Chiefs that Khe Sanh will not fall. But if he has underestimated Giap, as the French did, the psychological impact would be devastating.

Not even the fall of Khe Sanh, however, would mean the U.S. has lost the Vietnam war. On both sides, the conflict has become a war of attrition. Westmoreland is trying to wear down the Communists who, in turn, are trying to wear out American patience. It has become a test of staying power.

But is it worth staying in Vietnam? Certainly the U.S. cannot afford to pour $26 billion a year, let alone the blood of our boys, into this remote jungle for too much longer.

The purpose, according to Secretary of State Rusk, is to contain Communist China. Admittedly, Peking is trying to foment insurrections in every country in Southeast Asia. These will be given encouragement, no doubt, if the U.S. pulls out of Vietnam. But tiny South Vietnam can never poke more than a finger into the Chinese dice.

It will take the manpower of India to block the manpower of China from sweeping over Asia. India's population increase each year is equal to the entire population of South Vietnam. In other words, India adds another South Vietnam to her growth every year.

What They Say

STATE SENATOR JOHN C. RYAN (28th District) — I was listening to Governor Hearnes' news release Thursday morning when he said that Republicans had joined with a group of Democrats to kill the capital improvements bill, House bill No. 9. This is the bill that carried all the capital improvements for the University of Missouri, state colleges, mental hospitals, State Fair grounds and other state institutions. This bill died in the House in the last few minutes of the special session.

The Senate had accepted the report of the conference committee with a $9,000,000 cut. This bill was passed by the Senate with $25,000,000 for capital improvements.

Even though I felt that some of these cuts were severe and unjust, I did not feel that every other institution in the state should suffer so I supported House Bill No. 9, but I do not feel that I was a part of any political group or groups.

I voted according to my own conscience.

MONEY CLIPS

A Drop in the Bucket

How to dispose of $3 million has placed our Treasury Department square on the horns of a dilemma.

Normally, this wouldn't be much of a problem, but these $3 million happen to be silver dollars coined at the Carson City mint, and in deference to their numismatic possibilities, Treasury officials would like to distribute them in an equitable manner.

Many methods of distribution have been offered to the department. Among them were bills introduced in Congress calling for the sale of the dollars at face value to nonprofit heart and cancer organizations. They could sell the coins to collectors and apply any profit to medical research in their respective fields.

To date, the Treasury has rejected all such plans, contending there were other nonprofit societies just as deserving and any profit should be shared equally.

Final decision will undoubtedly rest with the Joint Commission on Coinage when it meets this month. This commission, created by Congress, consists of 12 members of Congress, eight presidential appointees and four representatives of the executive branch of the government. Their recommendation will be influential but not necessarily final. The Treasury usually has the last word.

Very few collectors would turn down an opportunity to buy one of these Carson City dollars at a premium but, with only three million pieces to disperse among 12 to 14 million collectors, the Treasury will need more than a Solomon to solve its dilemma.

Mr. JDP, Cedar Rapids, Iowa (Cedar Rapids Gazette): Never having seen the reader's coin, I have no right to assume its condition to be less than he describes it. The values I quote are the established values and any more than a reasonable difference between that value and a dealer's buying price is the responsibility of the dealer to explain.

Mr. DS, Lake Villa, Ill. (Waukegan News-Sun): You have been ill-advised. Your 1898-S silver dollar lists at $22.50 in uncirculated condition.

Alvin Roth of New York is one of the world's greatest players. He is also one of the inventors of the Roth-Stone system. Bridge players can get along without the Roth-Stone system, but they can't get along without some of the Roth innovations. Two of these—the unusual no-trump and the negative double—are found in almost every expert kit today.

One of his newest ideas is the unusual cue bid. Today's hand shows the Roth unusual cue bid in action. North wants to be in game and offhand it appears that a no-trump game will be the best spot. In fact North has a typical two no-trump call over West's spade overcall. If he makes that bid, South will raise to three no-trump. East will open a spade, South's queen will bite the dust, North will take a diamond finesse and West will collect six tricks. North and South will complain about bad luck and someone will deal the next hand.

The bidding in the box shows how Alvin would get the no-trump contract into the South hand. North's two spade call is a Roth cue bid and asks partner to bid no-trump with a partial spade stopper. South complies, North raises to three no-trump and nothing can bother South. A spade lead will hold declarer to 10 tricks. Against the club lead he can and probably will make 11, but the important thing is that three no-trump is safe as Fort Knox.

We don't recommend this Roth cue bid for any but well-developed partnerships. It doesn't come up often, and if it is going to confuse you when it does, you had better leave it alone. How do you handle a regular slam try cue bid when you are playing this convention? This is easy indeed. The cue bidder repeats the cue bid to show that it is a real one.

Johnson's Eulogy A Bit Premature

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It could be a mite early to start writing off Lyndon Johnson as President even though headlines in the wake of the New Hampshire primary shrieked of "vulnerability" and "defeat."

For one thing: It's a little hard to see how anybody can lose an election when he isn't on the ballot, especially when he comes up with 48 per cent of the vote on a write-in basis—as Johnson did.

But this is even more important: When the man involved is president of the United States he has big advantages built into a big power base that comes with the office. And he can use them to the hilt in primary and general election campaigns.

There is a fleet of planes that can whisk him anywhere at 600 miles an hour—for speeches, dam dedications, the unveiling of monuments, conventions, and on and on.

All along the way, if there's any advance word at all, the crowds will turn out. They turn out just to see the President—but they also stay and listen to his talks and hang around hoping to be one of the lucky ones getting a handshake.

Since many of these events don't carry an outright political label, the federal government picks up the tab. When a trip during the general election campaign is labeled partly political and partly nonpolitical, the Democratic National Committee will be getting the check for the political portion.

But suppose the President wants to take a look at work on new dams on the Columbia River in the Northwest—he can go on to a political rally in Seattle and only that part of the bill goes to the Democratic paymaster.

Or Johnson can flip off to an airbase or a Marine camp or any other kind of military post as he has been doing lately on numerous weekends, and make speeches there. They may happen to have some political content, but still the show is mainly a demonstration of the commander-in-chief's concern with national defense. So the government foots the travel bill.

Then there are other ways a President can command attention and make a bit of political hay, if only incidentally.

He can stage news conferences whenever he wishes, perhaps at a moment when some special announcement of a major appointment or major program can capture headlines that otherwise might go in some measure to a political rival.

Presidents have usually snorted at any suggestions that such things might be staged deliberately for that purpose. But staged or not, there sometimes has been the capture of news play that might have gone to the opposition.

The same technique can work, too, for speeches, statements, bill-signings, and all sorts of public pronouncements.

On occasion, presidents have been suspected of utilizing the television networks in similar fashion to get into the living rooms at a time when it might be most damaging to an opponent by reason of conflicting efforts in the political arena.

And who has as many topdrawer executives to put on the oratorical circuit? Then there is the army of officials whose talents can be drafted for research and speechwriting.

President Johnson's old political mentor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, used plenty of these assets and devices on occasion. And there's no reason to suspect his protege did not learn his lessons well from the only four-term chief executive.

Lend an Ear, Dear Parent

I asked a pediatrician what took up the empty spaces in his practice now that so many of the traditional children's diseases were a thing of the past and was surprised when he told me the most remarkable change in his work was that now much of his time is taken up with counseling young patients, many of whom call to make their own appointments.

"I think it is because they see adults asking for professional help," he said. "And, the children feel they should talk over problems with a professional rather than a parent."

"What do they ask?" I asked.

"Everything," he said, "including my opinion on attitudes toward the Vietnam war as well as the usual questions about sex. However, the most common problem seems to be that children cannot communicate with parents. Most sessions begin with, 'My mother or father won't listen to me.'"

"That sounds familiar," I said. "Have you had a call from any of my children?"

"As a matter of fact, your 12-year-old son talked with me. He said he remarked to you that he thought he should get a psychiatrist and you answered, 'Good night! Did you break the one we bought you for Christmas?'"

"That's pretty bad, isn't it?"

"Well, I told him perhaps he had conditioned you to expect his talking with you only when he wanted you to buy something."

"Boy! That's pretty good!"

"We did explore the possibility that perhaps you subconsciously refused to hear his request because you rejected the very idea that your son could have something wrong with him."

"Oh, that's bad," I said.

"Then we decided that perhaps there wasn't anything so mysterious about your answer. I convinced him that mother was only kidding around."

"Say! That's good!" I said.

"Well, my practice is no longer all DPT shots. The kids seem to have transferred their trust and affection to me, their doctor, and I administer to them the best I can," he said modestly.

"How wonderful," I murmured. "And that reminds me. I saw your daughter Lisa going into Dr. Farrell's office next door. Is she having more trouble with her eyes?"

He squirmed in the chair and put his head in his hands. "No, she tells him the trouble is with MY ears. Goes over there and tells him that I never listen to her."

Yaztrzemski Is Faced By New Challenge of Power

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — As a Triple Crown winner, Carl Yaztrzemski of the Boston Red Sox can expect a pretty good going over by American League rivals this year.

Yaz got a hint of things to come early this week when the Chicago White Sox visited Chain O'Lakes Park for an exhibition game.

Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky, whose strategy in needling Yaz as "an All-Star from the neck down" backfired last summer, came up with a defense familiar to older fans—a shift designed by Lou Boudreau to stop Hall of Famer Ted Williams 20 years ago.

The White Sox stationed their second baseman deep and toward the right field line, the shortstop moved 20 feet to the right of second and the third baseman shaded the vacated hole at short.

Like Williams, Yaz accepted the challenge. Rather than try to hit to left, Yaz swung away. He ground directly to short the first time up, then went out twice more on easy hops.

"The White Sox shifted on me in a series in Chicago last year, but nothing like this," Yaz recalled. "It doesn't bother me, though. I'm not going to change my style."

Yaz, the league's Most Valuable Player after batting .326 with 44 homers and 121 RBI in 1967, is off to a slow start in Grapefruit League competition. But nobody is concerned.

The powerful left-handed slugger is gradually getting sharp after a tiring tour of winter banquets from coast to coast.

On Thursday the Red Sox broke their three-game losing streak with a 7-1 triumph over the White Sox. Yaztrzemski had one hit, but the big blow was Rico Petrocelli's two-run single. Dick Ellsworth pitched effectively for five innings.

Glenn Beckert, Billy Williams and Lou Johnson each drove in a run in a Chicago Cub sixth-inning rally and the Cubs beat California 6-4.

Chico Salmon's single in the last of the ninth capped a struggle by Cleveland, driving in the winning run in a 9-8 triumph over San Francisco.

Jack Aker's low throw in the eighth inning let Aaron Pointer in with a run and Houston beat Oakland 1-0. Willie Davis drove in runs with a double and a single and Los Angeles beat Detroit 5-0.

Hank Aaron's two-run double was one of 22 hits by Atlanta and the New York Yankees as the Braves won 7-3. St. Louis beat Minnesota 7-4. Lou Brock tripling in two runs.

Philadelphia won its third straight game, 2-0 over the Mets, behind the shutout pitching of Larry Jackson. Gary Wagner and Bill Wilson.

Baltimore got five home runs and crushed Washington 11-2. Pitcher Jim Palmer had two shots and Brooks Robinson, Frank Robinson and Elrod Hendricks each had one.

Webster Assures Outcome

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Peter's Peacocks, a movie-making flop in last year's National Invitation Basketball Tournament, have come up with a 1968 hit made certain by a new star, Elrnado Webster.

Call it an Oscar, or an Emmy or a most valuable player performance, they all fit the slender 6-foot-5 forward whose 51 points almost single-handedly eliminated Marshall 102-93 in double overtime Thursday night.

In contrast, 10th-ranked Duke's 97-81 breeze over Oklahoma City in the nightcap of the opening first-round doubleheader at the new Madison Square Garden bordered on boredom for a drained crowd of 17,602.

The racehorse, rough and tumble opener between two of the nation's high-scoring, but overlooked teams stole the show, living up to advance notices.

More important to the Peacocks, who advanced to Monday's quarter-finals against Duke, it served to wipe out the stigma of last year's humiliating 103-58 loss to Southern Illinois in the first round.

For a while, it looked like another 1967 role for St. Peter's, which has never passed the first round in three other NIT appearances. The Jersey City, N.J., team went from a 27-22 lead to a 47-31 deficit as the taller Thundering Herd took control of the boards and the scoring.

It was 51-38 at the half and 57-42 before Pete O'Dea and Webster, a Jersey City native, led the Peacocks on a string of 16 straight points. Four baskets by the 6-5 Webster and one by O'Dea, who finished with 25 points, in the last 3½ minutes forced Marshall to come from behind to tie 83-83 on George Stone's layup with 43 seconds left in regulation play.

The Herd missed two jumpers in the final seconds that would have won and then Webster, a one-man show with two regulars fouled out, scored all six St. Peter's points in the first overtime.

Still, Marshall had another chance to win, but missed another last second jump. It was the Herd's last chance as Webster pumped in three baskets at the start of the second extra period for a 95-91 lead.

Duke, 22-5, one of the tourney favorites, led by third-team All-American Mike Lewis, squashed Oklahoma City in the opening minutes. The 6-7, 225-pound center and Joe Kennedy split 12 points as the Blue Devils raced to a 17-4 lead and were never threatened.

The first round continues to-night with another doubleheader, Kansas meeting Temple in the opener and Villanova tackling Wyoming in the nightcap.

Ceylon Undecided

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Ceylon still is undecided whether to take part in the Mexico Olympic Games after the admission of South Africa.

When the council of the Ceylon Olympic Games Association met Thursday night it merely passed a resolution unanimously asking the International Olympic Committee to reconsider its decision to allow South Africa to take part.

All-Stars Downed By Faculty

By Bill Woolery
Overcoming a half-time deficit, the Smith-Cotton faculty swept to a 66-57 verdict over the Senior All-Stars Thursday night in the S-C gymnasium.

Sparked by Mike Robertson's six points early in the game, the All-Stars jumped to a quick six-point lead, 8-2. Continued fine play enabled the All-Stars to keep a first quarter lead, 16-13.

In the second quarter the Seniors stayed on top with the hot shooting of Robertson, Larry Thomas, and Rusty Johnson. Foster McGuire and Jim Shepherd nearly brought the Faculty back, gaining a 30-all tie in the closing seconds, but a determined full court press gave the Senior boys a 34-32 lead to take into the locker room.

Entering the court to the tune of "The Old Grey Mare Ain't What She Used To Be" the women faculty from S-C challenged the senior Spiz girls to a game of volleyball for the half-time entertainment.

Though lacking in speedy coordination, the women faculty took an early lead of 3-1 over the seniors. Yet determination and will overcame the Spiz only to put them ahead by 6-4. With help from the referees, the faculty extended time until they again chanced a win. Unable to beat the mighty senior girls, the faculty became satisfied with a tie of 7-7.

Coming back onto the court, the All-Stars, coached by varsity basketball players Tom Munson, George Williams, and Jerry Morris, faced a determined faculty team. Foster McGuire tied the score, 34-34, on a tip-in, and after a Rick Huddleston free throw for the Seniors, Jim Shepherd gave the faculty its first lead of the night, 36-35 on a jump shot from the corner. The teams traded baskets for several minutes until two Shepherd jumpers and a lay-in by Wes Sanders put the faculty into a commanding lead, 48-43, at the end of the third quarter.

Throughout the final period, the faculty widened their lead with the help of numerous technical fouls called on the All-Stars. This led to the final score of 66-57.

High point man for the faculty was Jim Shepherd with 10 points, followed closely by Sanders with 9, and McGuire and Earl Finley with 8 each. Mike Robertson and Larry Thomas led the All-Stars with 17 and 15 respectively.

Preceding the game was the presentation of an electrical foul stand to the school by the S-C Lettermen's Club. This organization, which sponsored the basketball contest, is led by Dennis Boehne, president, and Tim Purcell, sponsor.

Schranz Feels He Has Nothing He Must Prove

ASPEN, Colo. (AP)—Austria's Karl Schranz feels at 29 "just as young as I did five or six years ago." He says "I'll do my best but I don't have to prove anything" in international ski races this weekend.

Schranz and the 24-year-old Jean-Claude Killy, France's super skier, meet in downhill today, slalom Saturday and giant slalom Sunday.

It's their first head-on duel since Killy swept three Olympic gold medals in Alpine skiing at Grenoble, France, last month. Schranz claims he should have won the slalom, but the ski jury disqualified his best time on grounds he missed two gates.

Seventy-one men from the United States and six foreign countries are entered in the downhill, a two-mile race with a vertical drop of 2,600 feet.

Bristol Is Looking Ahead to New Year

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — If Dave Bristol wanted to be an alibi artist he could have claimed the pennant in the Blue Cross League last season. The Cincinnati Reds had so many hospital cases they almost bought their own ambulance.

On June 18 when the club finally fell out of first place, Bristol had only 17 active players.

"That's all ancient history," said the scrappy skipper of the Reds, at 33 the youngest manager in the majors. "Let's not shed any tears about what happened last year. The Green Bay Packers lose guys and go ahead and win it anyhow."

Just for the record, it should be noted that Leo Cardenas, Pete Rose, Tommy Helms, Jim Maloney, Deron Johnson, Bill McCool, Tommy Harper and Ted Abernathy all spent time on the iodine list.

The injuries usually came in pairs. The loss of Cardenas, the all-important regular shortstop, for 54 games with a broken left hand was the blow that hurt most.

Despite the series of misfortunes that forced Bristol to juggle his infield, outfield and pitching staff, the Reds finished 12 games over .500 at 87-75 and were fourth, only four games out of second and 1½ back of the Cardinals.

No club in baseball made as many player changes as the Reds during the winter as General Manager Bob Howsam shuffled the roster and shook up the front office.

Deron Johnson went to Atlanta, Art Shamsky to the New York Mets, Tommy Harper to Cleveland, Floyd Robinson and Darrell Osteen to Oakland, Sammy Ellis to the California Angels and Johnny Edwards to St. Louis.

In return, the Reds got Mack Jones and Jim Beauchamp from the Braves, Bob Johnson from the Mets, Fred Whitfield and George Culver from the Indians, Ron Tompkins from the A's, Bill Kelo and Jorge Rubio from the Angels and Pat Corrales and Jimmy Williams from the Cards.

The most important rookie in the Reds' camp is Johnny Bench, a 20-year-old catcher who hit 23 home runs but batted only .259 for Buffalo last season.

"Bench looks like a real good kid," said Bristol. "He has the hands, the strong arm and knows how to handle pitchers."

Bench had moved into the No. 1 job before Edwards was traded to the Cards. If he comes through as expected, Don Pavlich will be his backup man.

The infield is set with Lee May, a fine 1967 rookie, at first base, Helms at second, Cardenas at short and Tony Perez, the All-Star game home run hero, at third base. Perez led the Reds with 26 homers and 102 runs batted in last year.

The hottest hitter of the spring has been Beauchamp, still on a minor league roster but apparently recovered from his old shoulder trouble.

"We were predominantly a right-handed hitting club," said Bristol. "That was the reason for some of our deals. Now we have added left-handed hitters like Jones, Whitfield and Raudman. Kelo, Culver and Tompkins give us more depth to our pitching staff."

"The four regulars will be Jim Maloney (15-11), Milt Pappas (16-13), Mel Queen (14-8) and Gary Nolan (14-8). The fifth starter will come from Billy McCool (3-7), Gerry Arrigo (6-6), Culver (7-3 with Cleveland), Tompkins (10-9 at Vancouver) and John Tsitouris (17-7 at San Diego)".

The four starters are right-handers so Bristol would like to come up with a southpaw for No. 5. That would mean McCool a reformer relief man, or Arrigo.

Ted Abernathy (6-3), the submarine ball-throwing veteran, is the bullpen ace. Kelo (5-3 with the Angels) should ease his burden. Abernathy was in 70 games although he missed time due to an injury in May.

Don Nottebart (0-3), Bob Lee (3-3) and possibly left-handed Ted Davidson (1-0), who missed most of last year due to a shooting incident in spring training, are fighting for a job.

The Reds figure to be an important pennant factor, ready to move up if the Cardinals falter. Next—Chicago White Sox.

West Discouraged By Many Injuries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry West, All-Pro guard of the Los Angeles Lakers said Thursday if his injuries continue to keep him on the bench, he may quit playing basketball altogether.

West has missed 28 games this year with an assortment of injuries including a broken nose, a bruised hip and, most recently, a pulled groin muscle.

In his eighth year in the National Basketball Association, West said he doesn't like earning his money on the bench. He'll be 30 on May 28.

Legion Of California 49 Years Old

The American Legion Auxiliary Jobe-Elliott 17, California, met Thursday night with 28 members in attendance and 68 paid members in the organization.

Mrs. Dessie Hossman gave a report of the work of Moniteau County's Committee for Crippled Children.

The Auxiliary voted to send to the county court an endorsement of the recommendation of the Moniteau County Historical Society that a five cent tax levee be made for a period of two years for the purpose of restoring and redecorating the interior of the county Courthouse.

Girls chosen to send to Girl's State are Jo Ann Minturn and Sally English, with Gayle Hall and Brenda Wallenmeyer as alternates.

During the social hour Mrs. Don Moore accompanied by Mrs. J. D. Branch sang two selections.

A cake decorated in honor of the Legion's 49th birthday was served by Mrs. Oscar Kueffer, Mrs. Floyd Cullison, and Mrs. Ruby Coale.

There will be a covered dish supper at the April meeting. A meeting of Eight District will be held at the Roscoe Enloe unit in Jefferson City March 17.

Fate Steps In For Stranded Motorist

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Fate intervened when Mrs. Victor Sprangler ran out of gas Wednesday.

As her car sputtered and she pulled to the side of the street, she heard her license number called out over the radio. She had been declared a winner in a traffic tag contest by a radio station WDXB newsman following her.

Her prize—10 gallons of gasoline.

The newsman went to get the gas for her.

A little cottage in East Hampton, Long Island, is said to have been the inspiration for John Howard Payne's "Home Sweet Home."

Henley-Lane Vows

Mrs. Dorothy Henley and Mr. Elmer Lane were united in marriage February 19 at the First Baptist Church in Stillwell, Okla.

The Rev. Bob Batchelder performed the double ring ceremony at half past 10 o'clock in the morning. Honor attendants present were Rose Hembree and Bob Batchelder.

After a short wedding trip through Oklahoma and Arkansas the couple is at home on Route 2.

NEXT THEY'LL COP A COP
HONOLULU (AP) — The Honolulu police headquarters doesn't seem to be a deterrent to burglars.

Thieves recently broke into a finance company office located next door to the police station and escaped with about $400 after cracking the office safe.

Several years ago, a music store next door to the finance company was hit by burglars who stole $5,000 worth of merchandise.

In that burglary, police said the station's air conditioner blowers muffled the sound of the burglars breaking down the back door of the music store.

Cool To Bid By Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy displayed a marked coolness Thursday toward a possible presidential bid by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and said that it might split opponents of the Vietnam war and help renominate President Johnson.

He said that if Kennedy's reassessment results in a decision to contest for the nomination in the key Oregon and California primaries, the result might be to assure both of these states' delegations for Johnson at the Democratic National Convention. "It would make it a little less likely that we would have strength on the first ballot," he said.

McCarthy said his supporters are standing firm behind him and he showed his determination to stay in the race by announcing he will run in two more presidential primaries, in Indiana on May 7 and in South Dakota on June 4.

Kennedy refused to add anything to his announcement that he is reassessing the situation. "I'm not having anything further to say," he told reporters outside his office.

Kennedy's statement drew prompt support from California's top Democrat, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, but there was little early support from other leading Democrats around the country.

Aides to the New York Democrat have said he will reach his decision by a week from Friday, which is the deadline for withdrawal from the May 28 Oregon primary.

The aides had also indicated Kennedy might enter other primaries, if he decides to run, but McCarthy moved quickly to get into these races ahead of the New York Democrat.

In announcing he will enter the Indiana and South Dakota primaries, McCarthy said he is doing so because "neither President Johnson nor Richard M. Nixon, now the leading Republican candidate, offer Americans a real choice or a real alternative."

"The issues, therefore, must be raised in as many primary elections as possible to ensure that as many voters as possible can express their wish as to the future course of America," he said.

McCarthy said Wednesday he thought a Kennedy candidacy, based on approximately the same platform as his, might confuse matters. He was asked by reporters Thursday if he thought Kennedy's entry would split the peace movement. "I think it would," he replied.

He was then asked if he thought Johnson's chances of renomination would be enhanced by a Kennedy candidacy. He shook his head and repeated "I think it would."

Later, in his office, McCarthy was shown a Washington Evening Star headline which read "Kennedy getting cool response."

"What else would you expect," he said.

A key supporter of Johnson, meanwhile, said a Kennedy candidacy would mean "a disruptive split" in the Democratic party.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey told a news conference he fears a Johnson-Kennedy struggle will tear apart the party.

Talks About Kennedy

Talking to reporters at a county GOP committee reception in Huntington, N.Y., Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says a decision by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to enter the presidential race "would probably split the Democratic party line wide open." The Governor declined to make any statement about his own presidential decision or his views on the Vietnam war. (UPI)

RFK Invited To Run In Wisconsin Primary

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin's Young Democrats invited Robert F. Kennedy Thursday to join personally in a Wisconsin primary campaign which already holds an assortment of potential pitfalls for President Johnson.

Kennedy himself is out of the running in the state, but his appearance could rally still more anti-administration votes in the April 2 balloting.

Dennis Klazura, chairman of Wisconsin's Young Democrats, asked the New York senator to address the group's state convention the last weekend in March.

Bonding Capacity Is Not Affected

The $1,050,000 industrial bonds proposal for a new plant for Town & Country Shoes, Inc., will not affect the bonding capacity of the city for other municipal projects it was reported Thursday.

According to provisions in the constitution of the State of Missouri, the bonding limit for industrial purposes relative to industrial obligation bonds in Sedalia would be approximately $3,400,000 and is not subject to other indebtedness incurred under provisions of Article six of the Constitution.

The only limitation Sedalia has on industrial obligation bonds is an amount equal to 10 per cent of assessed valuation without regard to other municipal bonded indebtedness.

This simply means that with the Rival project of $750,000 and the Town & Country project of $1,050,000 that the city has a capability of voting $1,600,000 more in industrial obligation bonds. Naturally, there is no limit on industrial revenue bonds.

Bill Hall, director of Industrial Development, said today "What this simply means is that industrial obligation bonds do not have an effect on the city's bonding capacity for other programs such as water, sewer, municipal improvement — including airports and city halls."

"The industrial obligation bonds can be voted at no cost to the taxpayers because of the company's guarantee to pay a lease in an amount equal to the principal, interest and reserve fund in order to pay off the bonds."

"The lease is the same type of lease and the bonds are the same type of bonds that were voted in November of 1967 for Rival Manufacturing Company. We now have an opportunity to once again expand one of our major local industries. This is one of the best and most economical ways to keep Sedalia growing."

Rep. Clement Zablocki, the veteran Milwaukee congressman who is the only member of Wisconsin's Democratic delegation to voice full support of the President, said that while he doubted Johnson would appear, he hoped Vice President Hubert Humphrey would "give some assistance."

Humphrey was the loser in the last such head-to-head primary contest in 1960, when John F. Kennedy won his initial major boost toward the presidency.

meanwhile Sen. William Proxmire, who although insisting on neutrality had said earlier he would back President Johnson's Vietnamese war policies, said he had increasing misgivings about the conduct of the war and added that he thought the President is "in very serious trouble" in Wisconsin.

"Johnson forces obviously badly underestimated McCarthy," Proxmire said. "Wisconsin could be a very crucial test for Lyndon Johnson."

Sen. Gaylord Nelson and Reps. Henry Reuss and Robert Kastenmeier, the state's other Democrats in Congress, all self-declared neutrals in the contest between McCarthy and the President, all agreed that the New Hampshire vote Tuesday, which gave Johnson 48 per cent and McCarthy 42 per cent of the vote, showed a deep dissatisfaction there with the escalation of the war.

Kastenmeier added that the Wisconsin primary "may be one of the last chances Johnson has to respond to the will of the people."

Symington Asks For Bond Reconsideration

Missouri Senator Stuart Symington Thursday requested in a Senate statement that the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee carefully consider the IRS proposal for revocation of tax exemption on municipal revenue bonds.

Symington said, "The use of these bonds has provided 9,338 badly needed jobs in 46 Missouri cities. Many other projects are now being developed. Some forty states are now using the program."

"Any action to revoke or limit this tax exemption should provide for completion of arrangements already initiated between communities and industries for plant expansion and new construction."

Governor Picks LBJ Over Nixon

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said Thursday it would be difficult to answer the question whether President Johnson's candidacy for re-election would hurt Democratic candidates for office in Missouri.

"But I'll say one thing. I think Johnson could beat Nixon."

Former vice-President Richard M. Nixon is at this time the front runner in the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Quired further as to whether he thought Johnson could beat New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller — who has said only that he would accept a Republican draft for the presidential nomination — Hearnes said a poll last October indicated Rockefeller was more popular in Missouri than Johnson.

But, he said, that was quite awhile ago.

Besides, Hearnes said, the whole question is academic because "I don't think Rockefeller will ever be nominated" by the GOP.

Calls For Tax Boost Within Thirty Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing the rush on gold and increasing costs of the war in Vietnam, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said Thursday it is necessary that Congress boost income taxes within 30 days.

But his recommendation that taxes be increased twice as much as the 10 per cent surcharge proposed by President Johnson last August made no noticeable impact on the man most responsible for congressional inaction.

"I don't have enough information to comment one way or the other," said Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee when asked about Fowler's statement.

Johnson's surtax proposal is bottled up in Mills' committee. Asked by newsmen whether there might be another meeting on it soon, Mills replied: "It is always before us."

But he said Fowler, in a closed session with the commit-

European Gold Buying Reaches Record High

LONDON (AP) — Gold buying in Western Europe hit a record high Thursday despite the efforts of dealers to check the stampede to get rid of paper money.

The pound slipped to a historic low in London. The dollar weakened everywhere except in Paris.

Bankers, dealers and economists said that only determined, positive action by the U.S. Treasury can stave off a world collapse of confidence in monetary values.

"What we would like now are not reassuring statements but real measures," a Swiss banker said.

Sales in London, by far the biggest bullion market in the world, were estimated at more than 200 tons. Zurich's were estimated at more than 100 tons even though major banks suspended sales two hours early. Small Frankfurt market recorded tremendous sales by its scale although no figures were available.

Similar scenes were repeated in metal markets in silver, platinum, palladium and even copper.

According to the best estimates available, the international gold pool has had to supply a minimum of 450 tons of gold so far this week.

How long will it last and how can it be stopped?

In London, Paris and Zurich, dealers took action of their own accord to calm nerves and make buyers stop and think.

In London they raised the price to the highest level since the formation in 1960 of the seven-nation gold pool: $35.26. They also refused to accept small orders for a gold piece or a handful of gold Napoleons. In Paris, dealers raised the price to the prohibitive level of $35.90.

But still the sales continued. Many in Britain, Switzerland and elsewhere privately criticized the U.S. Congress for delays in removing the dollar's gold cover to make available for the battle against speculators about $10 billion worth of gold.

Others expressed irritation at what they considered to be U.S. congressional delays in enacting a 10 per cent surtax and determined action to reduce the balance of payments deficit.

Many observers saw the threat of monetary anarchy in continuance of the gold panic.

A catastrophic effect on world trade and industrial expansion was feared as private savings, which normally provide the capital for industry, were shifted into sterile gold.

The effect on the foreign exchange markets was catastrophic. (See EUROPEAN, Page 4)

Cut Estimate Of Red Forces In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced Thursday the first substantial cut in months in its estimate of enemy forces in South Vietnam, reckoning that the Viet Cong and infiltrated North Vietnamese now total from 207,000 to 220,000.

That would be a drop of from 16,000-28,000 from the previous figures, despite enemy recruiting and infiltration to make up for the loss of thousands of troops—more than 50,000 by U.S. report—in the lunar new year offensive. The estimate had been 223,000 to 248,000.

On the other hand, American combat deaths through seven years of war in Vietnam evidently have now passed the 20,000 mark. The U.S. Command said 509 American servicemen were killed last week, pushing the total to 19,760. Scores have fallen since.

The allies, forced to divide manpower between garrison and field duty, are building toward a total of 1,380,000 by the end of June. Of these, 525,000 would be Americans.

The ambush of a 30-truck convoy Thursday on a main highway only nine miles northeast of Saigon, though a relatively minor incident, demonstrated a still pressing threat of Viet Cong forces around the capital.

Enemy riflemen and machine gunners lying in wait along Route 1A, which carries thousands of allied vehicles daily, fired on the convoy as it moved north toward the big U.S. base at Long Binh. One U.S. soldier and one of the enemy were killed. Damage to the convoy, made up of 11 military and 19 civilian vehicles, was described as light.

The bushwackers were part of enemy forces perhaps refitting for another attempt to seize or destroy Saigon. Intelligence officers estimate the Communist high command has 10,000 men within a 10-mile radius of the capital.

The enemy strike followed up what the U.S. Command called an "attempted ambush" Wednesday of a 130-vehicle convoy of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in the central highlands nine miles north of Pleiku.

South Vietnamese armored cavalrymen and U.S. tactical jets and helicopters shot up the enemy positions. The U.S. Command said 48 of the ambushers and 12 U.S. soldiers were killed. South Vietnamese casualties were termed light.

Two companies of U.S. Marines clashed with an enemy force of undetermined size in a 2½-hour fight Wednesday night near Dong Ha, a Leatherneck supply base 11 miles south of the demilitarized zone. A spokesman said 30 of the enemy and one Marine were killed.

MoPac To Order Freight Cars

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Missouri Pacific System announced today it will order 360 railroad freight cars at a cost of about $9.6 million as part of its 1968 capital improvement program.

Downing B. Jenks, president, said the new order brings to 1,560 the number of new cars being purchased by Missouri Pacific and its subsidiaries so far this year.

The new order includes 200 insulated box cars of 70-ton capacity, 157 high-cube box cars for automobile parts and three 58-foot, heavy-duty flat cars capable of transporting 600,000 pounds.

Agony At Report Of Son's Loss

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The shock of making funeral arrangements for a marine son believed dead in Vietnam, of receiving flowers and letters of sympathy, is only slowly disappearing in the family of Pfc. James A. Carter.

A visit by Marine Corps officers followed by a telegram "Your son has been reported missing in the Republic of Vietnam since 4 o'clock March 6" had tensed Mr. and Mrs. Holland L. Carter. The telegram recited "his aircraft was shot down by hostile ground fire while enroute to the Khe Sanh air base."

So the parents set about accepting the loss of their son who, at 17, and against their wishes, had joined the marines in 1966.

A package arrived from Vietnam for Becky, 5, and Jon, 8, sister and brother to the marine. Neighbors accepted the postal delivery but kept it from the family.

The telephone began ringing, friends calling to express sympathy.

Then one more telephone call—in what Mrs. Carter describes as "five days of agony and hell." This call Monday was by radio-phone and the operator was asking whether Mrs. Carter would accept a collect call.

Ben Tre Destruction Considered Necessary

EDITOR'S NOTE—Amid the ruins of a Mekong Delta community early in February a U.S. major said sadly: "It became necessary to destroy the town in order to save it."

He meant that allied bombers, rockets and napalm had to be used to rout Viet Cong from the city of Ben Tre even though civilians suffered and buildings crumbled to dust.

This is an up-to-date report on Ben Tre.

By PETER ARNETT

Associated Press Writer

BEN TRE, Vietnam (AP) — Ben Tre bleeds in the hot tropic sun, its wounds still bare.

A U.S. officer said Ben Tre had to be destroyed to be saved from a horde of Viet Cong. It took 45 hours of fighting to destroy 45 per cent of Ben Tre, a city of 34,000.

Now, 45 days later, the government has not provided one brick to rebuild the Mekong Delta community.

"Ben Tre is a microcosm of Vietnam now, of the inertia that still lies over most of the country in the wake of the Tet offensive," a senior U.S. civilian observed in Saigon.

In Ben Tre, an American civilian official commented: "In six weeks here we have seen that the government cannot protect the people, or control them, or administer them or help them recover."

"We may well have lost the political war for Ben Tre."

The bleak picture is brightened by one factor, a pioneer do-it-yourself attitude. Some of the population are patching their battered homes together brick by brick. The high school student body has organized a refugee relief force that digs bunkers, washes children and distributes food.

An American official said, "The local people are away ahead of the local government in getting things moving here. The people are our brightest hope." Another official echoed, "The people are our only hope."

The inertia of the Ben Tre administration stems from fear, indifference and incompetence, factors that have adversely affected the recovery of most of Vietnam from the Tet offensive.

The performance of the recovery committee in Ben Tre was lamentable all of February, U.S. officials said. The chairman, a deputy province chief for social welfare, was fired this month and Americans see glimmers of a bolder approach.

The problems are many. Ben Tre is clogged with refugees. U.S. officials estimate that about 2,500 of the town's 8,000 families are homeless and living in bad conditions. The first priority of the refugees is getting their homes rebuilt.

The allotment of cement per family is 15 bags, when it arrives.

Viet Cong still abound in the area. U.S. officials fear another attack.

Counties included in the region are Cooper, Monticau, Cole, Osage, Howard, Boone, Calloway and Adrian.

Ouch!

A brief moment of pain registers on the face of Benny Ekwall, 11, of Hiawatha, as he received his immunization shot for red measles recently. The eyes of an unidentified girl, next in line to receive a shot, are glued to the injection gun held by Dr. Charles Schwartz. (UPI)

Support for Red Cross

Technically the United States is not engaged in war, but an undeclared action like the hostilities going on in Vietnam, is a dead ringer for one.

The conflict, the increasing casualties and civilian help needed over there are beginning to touch the people back home in many ways. One of these is the service of the American Red Cross.

All over the world the Red Cross stands as the symbol of helpfulness in time of trouble. The humanitarian record of this organization in disaster relief at home and around the globe is firmly established in every adult mind.

Assisting people plagued by floods, hurricanes, tornadoes and other natural disasters puts a strain on normal Red Cross resources. Now additional accommodations should be supplied men in the armed services in areas of stress and heed for communication with families.

Consequently, Pettis County is called upon in this emergency to raise $3,000 as its quota in the current S.O.S. campaign to "Support Our Servicemen."

Fred Nuzum, chairman of the local chapter, has issued an appeal for civilian financial support. This should be forthcoming in the amount designated.

The Red Cross does not need to be sold to the American people. It should be enough to note that this is the moment for them to make another investment in the helpfulness the organization symbolizes.

Browsing through some microfilm reels of the Sedalia Democrat we stopped to read the March 14, 1898 issue. Headlines emphasized numerous threats to the United States on the eve of the Spanish-American War, such as:

"Spain and France Join Hands." "Americans Called Scoundrels by Nature." Emperor Wilhelm of Germany roars: "What I declare is that as long as Wilhelm II is emperor the Yankees shall not take possession of Cuba."

Less than 40 years later, Hitler and Mussolini were mouthing similar diatribes of which we were reminded in the recent television movie of the Rise and Fall of Hitler.

Now here we are 70 years away from March 14, 1898 and Uncle Sam is still the whipping boy. Only this time in broader scope criticism comes from many nations we have befriended financially and otherwise.

The isolationists (remember them?) of yesteryear would turn over in their graves if they could hear how the United States is played for a sucker today.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Military Shaping Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — Before the Senate votes money for 200,000 more U.S. troops to Vietnam, it should take a careful look at two things:

1. The slip-and-slide manner in which we have become involved in a major war without the consent of Congress.

2. The manner in which the American military more and more are shaping, now almost directing, foreign policy.

The trend toward military dictation of foreign policy has been developing for some time, but has reached a peak under Lyndon Johnson. Today there are only three civilian advisers whom he consults — Secretary of State Rusk, who has become so entrenched regarding Vietnam that he has lost his perspective; Walt Rostow, who was responsible for our original involvement in Vietnam under Kennedy and now wants to justify his mistake; and the new Secretary of Defense, Clark Clifford, who has kept his perspective.

These three lunch with the President once a week. Secretary of Defense McNamara, now retired, is reported to have had a feeling of remorse that he was partly responsible for leading the country deeper and deeper into war. Clifford, who has taken his place, is a tough, shrewd observer and not as much of a hawk as originally reported. It now develops that he was against the bombing of North Vietnam on the fatal night of Feb. 7, 1965, when the Johnson administration took its biggest escalation step. He felt the decision was a serious error.

It was the military who persuaded the President to take this step. Acting Secretary of State George Ball vigorously opposed the escalation. Ball argued that Premier Kosygin, who had been in office only four months, had arrived in Hanoi only the day before, and to bomb at that time looked like a deliberate slap at him. Later it developed that Kosygin had been on a mission to persuade the North Vietnamese to talk peace.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have been the guiding factor in setting American policy in Vietnam ever since. Simultaneously the war has been going from bad to worse.

Military Encroachment

The encroachment of the American military on foreign policy under Johnson is not entirely new. To some extent it began under Franklin Roosevelt, who gave the Navy a much bigger role than the Army. Roosevelt had served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy under Wilson, and resented the manner in which the Republicans under Coolidge and Hoover had scrapped battleships and curtailed cruisers. FDR rebuilt the Navy at a tremendous speed, but never let the Admirals or the Generals run World War II.

Harry Truman, a veteran of Battery D in the old Missouri National Guard, reversed this, gave more power to the Army. His close friend and military aide, Gen. Harry Vaughan, was a staunch Army man, and on occasion helped siphon arms to Latin American nations despite the opposition of the State Department. Truman, however, never let the Army get out of hand, and fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur when he stepped over the line.

Significantly it was a military president, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who curbed the Army more than any other recent president. The Generals used to complain that Ike cut the military budget more than any civilian president. Ike understood Army politics, and was tough with his old buddies when they tried to lobby on Capitol Hill. He also warned, as he left office, of the danger of an alliance between the defense contractors and the military.

Kennedy returned the military to a position of power, emphasizing a 50-year fact that the military have always prospered under Democratic presidents.

LBJ's Record

However, no Democrat has given the military so much scope as Lyndon Johnson. Lyndon's kowtowing to the brass began when he was a young Lieutenant Commander in the South Pacific in World War II. Later he served on the House Naval Affairs Committee, then as Chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee.

As such, he teamed up with the Generals and Admirals to blast Eisenhower for the missile gap. As Senate Majority Leader he was in a potent position to give the military the appropriations they wanted, and he did.

The Generals and Admirals, in return, put more military bases in Texas than in any other state in the union. If the civilians, who were supposed to run the military under Ike, tried to economize on a base in Texas, they heard from Lyndon in no uncertain terms. And the military always rushed to his defense. Texas bases, no matter how outmoded, were not curtailed or transferred out of the state.

The President's latest romance has been with Gen. William Westmoreland, who was caught napping during the Tet Lunar Holiday in a manner almost as serious as Admiral H. E. Kimmel and Gen. Walter Short were caught napping at Pearl Harbor. They were removed from command and disciplined.

Gen. Westmoreland, instead of being removed, has asked for and will probably get 200,000 more troops. Significantly, the oldest friend the President has on Capitol Hill had been publicly critical of Westmoreland. When LBJ, a very young senator from Texas, aspired to be Senate Majority Leader in 1953, it was Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, Southern elder statesman, who got on the long distance telephone to absent senators, then not in session, and rounded up the votes.

Moderate Exercise Helpful in Colitis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What causes spastic colitis? Does it lead to a peptic ulcer? Is there any connection between spastic and mucous colitis? What is the best treatment? Is rest necessary?

A—In most victims the cause is a high-strung nervous system with emotional instability. Although high-strung persons often develop a peptic ulcer, the two diseases are not usually seen in the same person. Other causes of colitis include allergies, chronic amebic dysentery and other intestinal infections and persistent use of laxatives.

Other terms used synonymously with spastic colitis include mucous colitis and irritable bowel syndrome. The treatment is difficult because it is hard to correct the underlying cause. In addition to a bland diet, antispasmodic drugs and avoidance of laxatives, a short course with a tranquilizer may be necessary. Although strenuous exercise may, under some circumstances, aggravate your colitis, moderate exercise is encouraged. Rest is not particularly helpful.

Q—I have a bowel movement every time I finish a meal. What causes this?

A—Eating a meal is a natural stimulus to the entire digestive tract. In most persons this results in a bowel movement within an hour after finishing breakfast. When the stimulus is strong enough to cause a movement within a few minutes after every meal, the victim usually has an irritable colon.

Q—I have four or five loose stools a day. My doctor prescribed paregoric which helps but the condition returns when I stop taking the medicine. What should I do?

A—Paregoric is a very valuable drug for slowing the movements of the digestive tract but it is not advised for the treatment of chronic colitis. You should consult a specialist in gastrointestinal diseases.

Q—Will diarrhea eventually stop by itself?

A—Only if the cause is removed. The acute diarrhea of food poisoning is usually self-limited but the chronic diarrhea of mucous colitis requires expert treatment to bring it under control.

Q—I have had several attacks of spastic colitis. My doctor is giving me Combid. What is it for?

A—This drug is a combination of a tranquilizer and an antispasmodic that is widely used in the treatment of digestive disorders. When used under medical supervision it is safe.

After centuries of argument over the shape of the earth, scientists not only long ago discredited the belief that the earth is flat but have also shown that the earth is not perfectly round. The World Almanac says that the earth is flattened at both poles and therefore is not a true sphere but an oblate spheroid or ellipsoid. The polar circumference of the earth is 41,900 miles less than the equatorial circumference of 24,902.44 miles.

Thirty-five years ago when there weren't many expert bridge players, everyone knew everyone else quite well. In those days Waldemar von Zedtwitz was the slowest playing expert. His partners never minded. They were sure that after Waldy finished thinking, he would come up with the right play.

There are plenty of slow players today and when most of them go into a trance their partners shudder. Somehow or other they don't always find that right play when they get through thinking.

East was one of those slow players. It didn't take him long to play his king of hearts after a low card was played from dummy at trick one. Then East commenced to think while West shuddered.

West couldn't see that singleton ace of clubs in the South hand, but West could see that East was thinking of leading a spade and West wanted no part of a spade lead.

East could not see that singleton ace of clubs either but he might have. East was looking at 10 of clubs. His partner's three of hearts had been fourth best, so South was marked with four hearts. South had bid and rebid diamonds to show a five card suit. This left him with only four black cards and three were likely to be the queen and two other spades.

Anyway, East thought and finally played his king of spades. South dropped the queen and had established a sure spade entry to dummy. If East had returned a heart at trick two and used his top spades properly, declarer would have been set several tricks. Even after the king of spades play, East could have defeated the contract by shifting to the 10 of diamonds. But East did not make that play. Instead he led the heart back one play too late. South led a club to his ace, played a spade and wound up with six clubs and one trick in each other suit.

No Action Yet On a Tax Hike

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a torrent of words, pro and con, President Johnson's proposal for an income tax increase remains on dead center in the House Ways and Means Committee.

But forces are building up that could jar it into motion through a reluctant Congress.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, who can count on solid support from his Ways and Means Committee, repeatedly in recent weeks has listed two conditions under which he might take the 10 per cent surtax proposal out of the drawer:

—An unmistakable surge of inflation threatening a runaway.

—A sharp step-up in money needs for the Vietnam fighting.

The second is the one that seems more likely to develop soon.

Capitol Hill is betting it will be asked to appropriate for some degree of U. S. manpower buildup in Vietnam—whether it is the 200,000 additional troops that have been the subject of furious speculation or a much smaller number.

And apart from any U.S. build-up, a big bill is expected for replacement and upgrading of equipment for allied forces as well as those of this country.

In combination with even a modest increase in U.S. manpower commitment, such a expenditure would jump the prospective deficit so far beyond the $20 billion mark that the basically conservative objectors to a surtax on Ways and Means probably would bow to the demand for additional revenues.

The administration so far has tried to make its case for the surtax almost entirely on economic grounds, arguing the danger of inflation and the shaking of confidence abroad in the dollar. Such arguments lack the impact that a straight appeal for a war tax would have.

There have been some contradictions among the economic indicators and the economists, and while the majority of economic experts seem to favor the tax, they are not unanimous.

There is room to argue whether the inflation already being experienced is demand inflation—supposedly most vulnerable to a tax soaking up purchasing power—or administered or cost-push inflation relatively immune to such a remedy.

As for the argument that willingness to pass the tax bill is a test of the United States' sincerity in getting its international payments in order, one member snorted:

"Can you imagine me going before the House and saying we have to pass this tax bill because European bankers say we do?"

If it has been a deliberate administration policy to try not to emphasize the Vietnam war while arguing for more revenues, that policy will be scrapped whenever the time comes for congressional leaders to persuade their colleagues to cast tax-raising votes they will have to explain at home in an election year.

Betty Canary Mamas of Broods

It is a most interesting, sometimes entertaining, and always discomfiting fact of life that a mother of five or more children is always being asked for advice on how to rear children. I mean, people seem to think you KNOW, just because there are so many around your house.

I do not mean to imply that mothers with lots of children merely think, "Wow! Look at the kids around here!" and just forget about it. After all, they pick up ideas as well as dirty jeans, torn papers and ice cream dishes, and are always happy to share tips with others. However, it is a mistake to think they have all the answers on nail biting and homework.

Sometimes they are merely helpless victims. For example, let me assure you that there are those who must believe all mothers of large families belong to a guild and the big secret of the sisterhood is how to toilet-train a child.

Ask any of them! They will tell you that no matter where they are—say perhaps a tea or a luncheon—they will be having a grand time discussing politics or religion or a favorite comedian and sure as the world somebody will slide up and plead for information on how to dispense with diapers.

Now, experience has taught me. There is no point in my telling the truth. I cannot just say: "Frankly, I believe toilet training is an out-and-out MIRACLE!" because the young mother will not believe this. She KNOWS I know. So, I tell her, as every mother of a large family would, to relax and the little doll will be trained when HE is ready. Also, I usually emphasize the fact that I have never seen a child going to school carrying a diaper pail.

My friend Ella tells me that she is always turning around and finding a mother of one or two children asking her in a quivering voice, "I don't spank my children—do you?" "What do you tell her?" I asked.

"Oh, I always say, 'NEVER.'"

"Is that all you tell her?"

"Well, sometimes I tell her the rest of the truth, which is, because they all move too fast for me."

Actually, the most common misconception about mothers of large families is that, having learned to cope with emergencies, and having learned to differentiate between cries of anger and cries of joy, they are always calm, serene and above it all. Of course, this is not the truth, although I must say I used to believe this myself. There is Ella, for example, who has 10 children. I went along for years believing she was calm and serene, only to discover that really she was in sort of a coma.

The Marred 'Victory'

An Egyptian military tribunal has sentenced the country's former air force commander, Lt. Gen. Mohammed Sidki Mahmoud, to 15 years in prison for "negligence which marred the victory of Egyptian armed forces" in the June war with Israel.

Lucky for Mahmoud that Egypt's "victory" was merely "marred." If the Israelis had caught 550 of Egypt's planes on the ground instead of only 450, he could have been shot.

Agony

from Pfc. James Carter in Vietnam.

"I started crying," she said, "and I told the operator my Jimmy was dead and the remains were being shipped to us. My husband grabbed the phone and said our son had been shot down."

Finally the voice on the other end of the line convinced Mrs. Carter he was her son and "right then I got down on my knees and I prayed hard and loud," the mother related Thursday.

"Son, I thought we had lost you," shouted the father.

"Dad, I missed it," said the son of the flight of the 123 transport that went down last week with the loss of 45 servicemen.

Marine Corps officials, notified of the call, then were unable to establish that Carter was alive. Only two days later did a new telegram from Washington verify that "your son was not aboard the C123 aircraft shot down near Khe Sanh."

It went on to express regret over the incident. Thursday Becky and Jon displayed the contents of the package from Vietnam, clothing sent by their older brother.

And of the whole incident Mrs. Carter said:

"Thank God he's alive. There has been a lot of agony — sheer hell — in this family for five days. I pray to God that I will lose this bitterness. All I want now is to have my son back."

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's special legislative session appropriated a total of $1,200,332.332 compared with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' recommendation of $1,198,375,977.

Since the capital improvements bill did not pass, the legislative fiscal affairs office reported today that left an operating reserve of $38,996,228 in general revenue (tax) funds.

If the building bill had passed, this reserve would have been cut to around $3 million.

For general operations the Legislature appropriated $1,191,260,961 compared with the governor's recommendation of $1,188,304,606. The rest went into the final catch-all or omnibus bill to cover new laws passed by the special session.
